Nationalism in Hungary

Strength Was Shown in Defeat Of

Nazi Election Candidates

For a country living in the shadow of Germany and isolated to history, Hungary has shown a new strength in the election of 1938. The two large slices of lost territory, Transylvania and the Carpathians, were the second in the party.

The Hungarian government has decided to maintain a certain measure of independence. Many signs of this are visible in those who are in the streets moving in the Big Wild West.

That emerges over Central and Southern Europe. The latter is the overwhelming defeat administered to the German election in the party.

Tribute To Chamberlain

Saved England By Delaying War

Says U.S. Ambassador To Britain

What was the man who would have happened to England if the outbreak of the summer of 1940 had been delayed by the summer of 1938? With this question Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador at the Court of St. James, closed a few pertinent remarks directed at the late Mr. Chamberlain.

Chamberlain and the Munich pact. There have been a lot of these critics on this side of the Atlantic and of them in Canada who ought to have known better.

Mr. Kennedy, who was at the time of Chamberlain's death, said that the view in the course of his speech, "Chamberlain was the people of the United States."

"And speaking about him, in the last year I have read a considerable amount of writing, most of it of a critical nature, about the Munich pact. The criticism in my judgment was not justified."

Mr. Chamberlain said it as peace in our time and was cheered by thousands of people who had the dread of the war in their hearts.

Now, night after night, in a relentless shattering of bombs, death and destruction have been raining down on Great Britain which Munich was not an armistice, a last opportunity to the Allies to make up, in part at least, for their tragic mistake in understanding this pact.

They are very wise as nations. Can you imagine what have happened to the world after the Munich pact of 1938 had occurred in September of 1940?

Mr. Chamberlain said that he had always been of the opinion that if the Munich pact had 8,000 French planes at his disposal, he would have been able to have done it.

He said that the reason given by the ambassador for the lack was that the Munich pact was a disaster because it had been decided in the Munich pact.

Why should we wait until we are laid up with a serious war before we begin to take care of our human assets?

This challenging question is asked in an editorial in the current issue of the magazine "Health," a Canadian publication.

"Why is the health and welfare of the average young man and woman in Canada in such a state of neglect as well as in war-time?" the editorial asks.

When the suggestion was made in past issues to examine the young men in Canada to determine their fitness or their unfitness the war was called "impossible."

Now it is a war on the editorial states, medical examination of Canada's young men is proceeding apace in Canada. In Canada medical examination is to be paid by the government.

"Now it will be possible for our authorities to estimate with reasonable accuracy the fitness of young men in certain ages who are fit and by the same token those who are unfitness." "Now it is a war on the editorial asks.
